

Letter, November 10, 1876, with transcript

Boston, Mass. Nov. 10th, 1876.

Several persons who have heard of the invention through Mr. George — evidently think that he is interested in the matter, and have given him orders to supply them with instruments when they are ready for use.

One company has ordered ten instruments; Mr. George and his partner Mr. Stearns are evidently anxious to give me every facility for experiment — in hopes of making something out of the invention — by selling and manufacturing apparatus.
